Metro / A23
Police disperse protesters on way to IPU; 13 hurt

Sports
Missing Filipino athletes leave trail of debris and debts

Entertainment
The Nora Aunor 'Dollywood' remembers from her childhood

Business Friday
What small firms do to survive tough advertising arena

World / A9
Rebels fail to stop Caravan of Peace across Kashmir

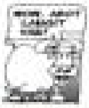

Media gag on cardinals lifted after they protested

PHILIPPINE DAILY
INQUIRER
BALANCED NEWS, FEARLESS VIEWS

Friday, April 8, 2005 | 32 pages | vol. 20 | no. 119

website: www.inq7.net

Cyberspace condolences cap first papacy of Internet age

History's biggest funeral

Last will says Pope thought of resigning 5 years ago

4 kings, 5 queens, 70 heads of state

4-5M to attend, millions more to watch on TV

One of us, one for the ages

EDITORIAL

Many of us still remember the last moments of his first visit. For six days in February 1981, Pope John Paul II had turned the country upside down, drawing millions of the devout and the curious out of their homes and into the public squares. The scenes of ecstatic welcome in Manila and Quezon City were repeated in the cities of Cebu, Davao, Bacolod, Iloilo, Legazpi, in Morong, Bataan, and then finally in Baguio. By his last day, even he was visibly reluctant to leave.

That day, a Sunday, he took his time at the departure ceremonies at the airport, embracing his well-wishers, raising his ring to be kissed, blessing everyone in sight. Then he went up the steps to the plane, turned around—and lingered. He waved goodbye (and each time the crowd shouted, "No! No!"). He blessed the people again and again. He looked on, clearly moved. At one point, he rested his left arm on the hand rail, looking directly at the throng below him, and with his right hand waved again.

The Pope had arrived in the Philippines a visitor; he left, six days after, as an old friend.

Pope-obsessed journalists dazed, saddened, inspired

Palace lied on media slots, played favorites

70 in GMA historic flight but at what price

WEATHER FORECAST

Second FRONTPAGE

Canlubang farmers win SC ruling

Military's 'Enemies' CD shown to media

Communist fronts

Yield Garcia, AFP urged

A HOUSE member yesterday urged the military to give up custody of Maj. Gen. Carlos Garcia, the former Armed Forces comptroller facing a P330-million plunder case along with his wife and their children before the Sandiganbayan.

GARCIA

Rep. Roilo Golez (Kampi, Parañaque) said Garcia, who is under the jurisdiction of the Armed Forces while undergoing court martial for violation of the Articles of War, should be handed over to the anti-graft court and detained at the Quezon City jail.

"The government gave way to the court martial as he was charged with lighter offenses like perjury. But now that plunder, a capital offense, has been filed, the Sandiganbayan should have jurisdiction and custody," said Golez, who chairs the House committee on national defense which conducted hearings on corruption in the AFP.

The Sandiganbayan was the "superior civilian court" and should assert its power over Garcia, he said.

City jail

Should the AFP hand him over to the court, Garcia has nowhere to go but the Quezon City jail, Golez said.

But if the gods should smile at him, Garcia could be incarcerated at Camp Crame like deposed President Estrada when the latter was similarly charged before the anti-graft court, he said.

The court, however, granted Estrada's request to be confined at a government hospital for health reasons, and still later at his vacation estate in Tanay, Rizal.

But Golez was not sure about the fate of Garcia's wife Clarita and son Timothy Mark, who are named as co-accused in the plunder complaint. The two are said to be in the United States.

Their possible extradition would depend on the provisions of the Philippines' extradition treaty with the US, said Golez.

Usually, extradition treaties—such as the one between the Philippines and Hong Kong—does not allow the extradition of wanted persons to the requesting country if the offense charged is punishable by death, Golez said.

But Alagad party-list Rep. Rodante Marcoleta said such provisions were not "absolute."

Marcoleta, a lawyer, said "exceptional conditions," such as if the requesting country had "strong evidence" to ensure conviction, would facilitate extradition.

The Ombudsman's office meanwhile has reiterated its request with the Bureau of Immigration to prevent Garcia or any member of his family from leaving the country.

Special Prosecutor Dennis Villa-Ignacio repeated the request on Wednesday after receiving reports that Clarita Garcia was in the country visiting her detained husband. He said there already was a hold-departure order against the Garcias.

"A HDO was already issued against the Garcia family in connection with a forfeiture case against them before the Sandiganbayan," he said.

Immigration commissioner Alipio Fernandez Jr. yesterday said Garcia remained on the bureau's watch list.

"He's been on the watch list since the issue broke out. We have not removed him from the list," he said in a phone interview.

Fernandez also said the BI would place Clarita on its watch list if asked to do so.

As for the Garcia couple's children, Fernandez said that as far as he knew they were US citizens.

The bureau usually puts criminal suspects on a watch list pending the issuance of a hold departure order against them. A hold departure order originates from either the the Department of Justice or the courts.

The Ombudsman charged Carlos, his wife Clarita, sons Ian Carl, Juan Paolo and Timothy Mark before the Sandiganbayan on Wednesday with plunder for allegedly illegally amassing wealth worth more than P303 million.

The filing of the case came more than six months after the Ombudsman started an investigation into the alleged illegal acquisition of wealth by Garcia and his family. No bail was recommended for all accused. Michael Lim Ubac, Nelson F. Flores and Leila B. Salaverria

Palace now wants malls, supermarkets to close early

MALACAÑANG is now asking shopping malls and supermarkets to help the government's energy conservation program by reducing their operating hours or even closing their stores for at least one day in a week.

Energy Secretary Raphael Lotilla said there was a "mixed reaction" to this proposal during a meeting between government officials and business representatives Wednesday night to promote the state's "EC (for energy conservation) way of life."

In a briefing, Lotilla said the state agencies like the Department of Trade and Industry and local government unit should coordinate with shopping malls and supermarkets to discuss the best strategy in cutting down their power costs, specifically the use of air-conditioning systems.

Lotilla said that while the government has suggested adopting a 6-day operating schedule similar to the government's 4-day work week, shopping malls and supermarkets could opt to operate on limited hours.

But Lotilla said it remained to be seen whether the giant mall and theater operators who were not present during the meeting would be willing to cooperate and cut down their operating hours.

Lotilla said the meeting was meant to make businessmen more conscious of the power spending. "By just lowering the temperature in a room, one can save a lot in terms of power cots," said Lotilla who noted that some foreigners have been complaining on how cold some hotel lobbies were in the country.

Another government suggestion was for companies to invest in an energy audit that would guide them in what areas their businesses could save on their electricity bill. Lotilla said most companies that undertook this audit had recouped their expenses from substantial savings in just a few months.

IRAQ WAR CRIMES

US comes under fire at IPU

NORTH MEETS SOUTH.

Pinoy dies saving a comrade in Iraq

Barbers quits House post

Corrections

Rosebud raked it in by lying, says Ping

SEN. Panfilo Lacson was rankled by controversial police agent Mary "Rosebud" Ong's complaints that her job as informant does not pay well.

Ong made the complaint after announcing she was finally paid P5.8 million in cash by the Philippine National Police for "intelligence services" she reportedly rendered in 1998 and 1999 to break into the drug and kidnapping syndicate of Taiwanese nationals and police officials led by Lacson during his time as chief of the PNP.

"She made lots of money by lying many, many times before at the expense and she continues to lie to make more money off the government," Lacson said in a statement.

Lacson denied Ong's allegation.

"I wish to reiterate that I have never gotten involved in illegal drugs and kidnappings as alleged and that Rosebud was never a PAOCTF agent as she alleges to be," Lacson said.

Before becoming PNP chief during his friend President Joseph Estrada's abbreviated term, Lacson headed the controversial Presidential Anti-Organized Crime Task Force. —Juliet Labog-Javellana

Missing RP athletes leave trail of debts

Montaña picks up 2nd victory

MONTAÑA triggerman [illegible]

GTK Army battles Asian rivals

'TWINS' BENEFACTOR

2 editors quit merged paper

2 firms charged with tax evasion

THE DAILY GOSPEL

70 in GMA historic flight but at what price

Doing the math

Roll call

'Diplomatic miracle'

Sin's health

Palace lied on media slots, played favorites

ABC 5 upset

Gov't stations left out

Washing of hands

Who paid, who didn't

Pope-obsessed journalists dazed, saddened, inspired

Passion deeply felt

Can't please all

4 kings, 5 queens, 70 heads of state

The WORLD

Rebels fail to stop 'caravan of peace' across Kashmir

16 dead after US chopper crashes in Afghanistan

OBJECT OF DESIRE

Loss of fireproofing may have led to WTC collapse, report says

SMOKE and debris erupt from the south tower of the World Trade Center in New York as it collapses following the terrorist attack on the landmark buildings in this Sept. 11, 2001 photo.

US focuses on disease spread through planes

Once-reluctant Prince Albert II takes over throne of Monaco

PRINCESS Caroline and Prince Albert escort their father, Prince Rainier III in this Sept. 18, 1982 photo, as they follow the funeral procession of Princess Grace to the cathedral in Monte Carlo. Rainier, whose marriage to the American film star Grace Kelly brought elegance and glamour to one of Europe's oldest dynasties, died April 6.

2M new poor from tsunami

Hot SMB start roasts Purefoods

Japanese AF3 driver unhurt after BRC crash

Hot scoring marks start of Southwoods Invitational

9-ball Champs League fires off in Urdaneta today

Fab Four

Spectator

Al S. Mendoza

Missing RP athletes leave . . .

JUNGOLF 'RYDER CUP'

Red holds on to slim edge

BAGUIO—The Red team, behind another late heroics by Justin Dy, salvaged an 8-8 draw in the second round to hold on to a precarious one-point lead over the Blue squad in the Ryder Cup-format tournament of the Samsung Jungolf Tour at the Camp John Hay Golf Club course here.

Dy, at seven one of the youngest players in the Red lineup, beat Gerard Marcelo, 5 and 3, in the final match of the day to secure the draw for his team and pave the way for an exciting final round where both teams shoot it out in 32 singles duels.

After posting an 8-7 lead in the best-ball/scramble format in the opening round, the Reds remained ahead, 16-15, of a fighting Blue squad in the tournament also supported by Philippine Airlines, Unilever and Camp John Hay.

"It can't get any better than this," said Jungolf president Bacol Lechica. "It comes down to who gets the most wins in the final round."

Meanwhile, the Jungolf Foundation of the Philippines announced that next week's third leg of the summer series at Tat Filipinas on April 11-13 will serve as the official qualifier to the Asia-Pacific junior championships in South Korea.

Red team captains Cyna Rodriguez and Crystal Faith Superal again punished their male rivals, Sanghin Yoon and Welen Ann Superal, 2 and 1, to earn one of the biggest wins for their team.

Also scoring for the Red team were the pairs of Nico Monsalve-Carlos Tinio, Jobic Tamaneo-Joseph Arenas, Agustin Pacheco-Michael Lianndibrea, Justin Lorenzo-Emerson Ang, Marvi Monsalve-Ana Salvador and Alex Sison-Felicia Medalla.

Three straight wins by Arriane Martinez-Kim Mingi, Arieno Mata-Robert Vallejo and Marco Ladovico keyed the Blues' big run in aggregate play.

The other Blue winners were Chris de la Cruz-Lawrence Celestino, Kirby Lechica-Anton Dimalaya, Koo Jong Gyeon-Devon Sweet, Francis Marquez-Agustin Mata and Joaquin Lorenzo-Diego Ledonio.

Island Paradise Adventure Race stakes P1M

By Jasmine W. Payo

DEFT driving skills and endurance could win you a million in nine days.

The Department of Tourism is inviting 35 three-man teams to compete for P1 million in the Luzon leg of the Island Paradise Adventure Race May 7-15.

"If you have a 4x4 and three adventurous souls, you're welcome to join," said Tourism Secretary Ace Durano during a press conference yesterday at the DOT main office in Manila. "Hopefully, this will help boost domestic tourism."

The motorcar adventure rally will feature physical and mental challenges around tourist destinations in Luzon including Baler, Banaue, Bayombong, Fundidanca, Laoag, Vigan, Alaminos, Subic and Metro Manila.

Patterned after the hit TV reality show "Amazing Race," the 2,000-km course will be flagged off at the Quirino Grandstand in Manila.

The two runners-up will receive P500,000 and P100,000 plus and gift certificates.

The Visayas leg is slated between October to December, while the Mindanao race has also been lined up.

Registration forms for the Luzon leg are available at the main and regional offices of DOT, Automobile Association of the Philippines, X Events Unlimited and Tour Consortium. Deadline for submission of entries is April 22. For inquiries, call 5239031 or 5363153.

Elixir, TCCC riders strike

ELIXIR Bike Shop and Tagaytay International Convention Center (TICC) struck for three gold medals each on the fourth day of the First Philippine Velo Challenge yesterday at the Amoranto Velodrome in Quezon City.

Marites Bitbit starred for Elixir of PhilCycling MTB commission chair Leo Magsaysay, ruling the Elite women's 800-m unpaced start final (one minute and 14 seconds) and the 3,000m individual pursuit race (4:35.35).

Jan Paul Morales, the other multiple gold-medal winner, shone for TICC, nailing top spot in the Juniors 200m Keirin (13.02 seconds) and the 3,000m individual pursuit race (4:00.29).

After four days of the event co-presented by the First Gentleman's Foundation and Air21-Tour Filipinas Inc., Elixir pulled farther away from the sixteam field with 128 points.

MaynilA was running second (109) followed by Quezon City (104), Wanzer Transformer Corp. (103), Puerto Princesa (96) and TICC (51) in the event supported primarily by Pagcor and backed by the Philippine Sports Commission, the Philippine Olympic Committee, Isuzu D-Max (the Philippines' No. 1 Pick-up), Sharp Phils., San Miguel Corp.-Viva Mineral Water, Victoria Tires, 92.3 xFM, RMN dzXL 558, David's Salon and Ian sports.

PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER
OPINION

One of us. . .

EDITORIAL

When he returned 14 years later, the Pope picked up right where he had left off. "We are, indeed, old friends," he said in his arrival statement.

[illegible]

The old swimming hole

AS I SEE IT

Neal H. Cruz

[illegible]

Secular thoughts on a faith incarnate

PASSION FOR REASON

Raul C. Pangalangan

[illegible]

Shape of the next papacy?

ANALYSIS

Amando Doronila

[illegible]

A visit to Tondo

AT LARGE

Rina Jimenez-David

[illegible]

The day's 'real hero'

LOOKING BACK

Ambeth R. Ocampo

[illegible]

Iloilo and 'urbanidad'

PINOY KASI

Michael L. Tan

[illegible]

ATB will abet corruption

Why less preference for beautiful RP

LETTERS

Filipino tenacity

Gross injustice, grand swindle

Question of the Week

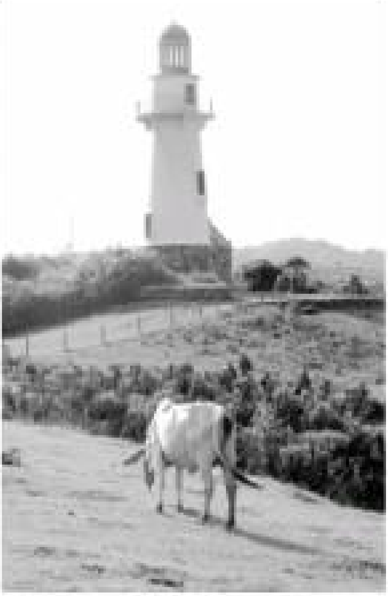

What are your memories of Pope John Paul II?

Across the NATION

Shut down Casecnan dam, gov orders

DA to shoulder half of cost of hybrid rice

SC justice to receive honorary law degree

A solitary cow grazes on the lush greens as a lighthouse provides a picturesque backdrop in Batanes. Fishing is the main livelihood for the island's approximately 17,000 residents.

High NLEx toll, meningo reports blamed for sharp fall in Baguio tourism

Marketing

Publicity

Murder raps filed vs reb suspect in priest slaying

Quezon charcoal makers seek lifting of ban on transport of forest products

WANTED BUYERS. Piles of charcoal along the road await buyers.

Sin remains hopeful of going to Rome to help elect next pope

Very sad

Still praying

Dialysis

Lone Filipino cardinal

El Shaddai

Luneta goodbye for Pope in RP

By Christian V. Esguerra

Pro-life rally

Lawmakers' tribute

Woods still the attraction, but not the main event

Mamat qualifies; Que 20th

Cra

CLEAN LIVING

Serena advan

SMC Super Dry Series

Grizzlies rip Raptors; Sixers win

Hill out for good?

GRIZZLIES' Bonzi Wells drives to the hoop.

RP-Cebuana Lhuillier overpowers Cavite quintet

ckdown on EIA virus

nces

Red Sox rally to nip Yankees

golf resumes today at Eastridge

Pope's Turkish assassin wants to attend funeral, too

AFP

Cyberspace condolences cap . . .

Thought of the day

Text messages

Use media to win hearts

AFP

For Speaker's wife, Vatican trip is a time for healing

History's biggest funeral

41 Filipino priests

Security clampdown

Emotional moment

Multimedia funeral

Papal firsts

Ex-Nicaragua head rues heckling of Pope in '83

Last will says Pope thought of resigning

Media gag on cardinals lifted ...

Penalties

Near-monarch

Collegiality

Activists, cops clash in rally; 13 hurt

Gambling banned in San Juan

No permits

Short lease given to park advocates

Speaker's bureau boosts Napolcom anticrime drive

Not readily available

Preparation for NCPW

METRO

From street children to street families

STREET dwellers now include entire families.

By Cynthia C. Balana

[illegible]

A persistent problem

[illegible]

Parenting enrichment

[illegible]

Non-Lakas members join Caloocan fray

By Nancy C. Carvajal

[illegible]

Beaten to the draw

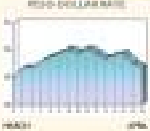

[illegible]

BUSINESS

Bangko Sentral raises interest rates

Currencies

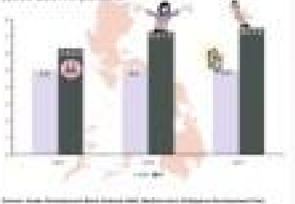

Stock Market

Survey shows RP firms still optimistic

Inquirer Monitor

RP gross domestic product growth rates

Boracay's fairer waters

COCKTALES

Victor C. Agustin

Money-go-round

Heard through the grapevine

BPI to sell ₱6B worth of loans, assets this year

By Doris C. Dumlao

DTI files cases against 27 emission testing centers

Bangko Sentral raises . . .

Sy inve

By Elizabeth L. Sanchez

INVESTMENT firm Sysmart Corp. of tycoon Henry Sy has increased its stake in property holding firm Belle Corp. to 10 percent from 8.34 percent.

In a report to the Philippine Stock Exchange, Sysmart said it had acquired an additional 1.71-percent stake, equivalent to 108.7 million shares, at P1.42 per share.

The move raised the company's total Belle Corp. shares to 638.53 million as of end-March from the previous level of 529.83 million.

Sysmart has investments in various listed firms including Belle Corp., Highlands Prime, and China Banking Corp.

Belle vice chair Willy Ocier said the investment showed the Sy group's commitment to Belle Corp. and its confidence in the company's management.

Sources said the shares were bought from holding firm iVantage Corp. and from the market.

IVantage, which has interests in technology firms and International Exchange Bank, has been consolidating its investments since last year, as it re-engineers itself to be a financial services-focused company.

Belle has managed to trim its debt from P10 billion in 1997 to P2.7 billion to date.

Survey

From page B1

duced economic uncertainties in the global arena, he said.

The survey was conducted in September and October last year, while the elections were held in the first half of 2004.

The optimism of businesses covered the area of generating income. The survey said more companies, at +62, believed they would have higher turnover this year than the previous year. The figure was an improvement from last year's +49, and close to the world average of +63.

But although more companies are optimistic for 2005, they point at several expected constraints to businesses. These were those related to regulation and red tape (+40), availability of skilled workforce (+21), reduced demand (+24), shortage of working capital (+12), shortage of long-term finance (+11), and the cost of finance (+17).

Navarro said that while companies were optimistic about the performance of their businesses, they exercised caution on how the constraints might affect them.

"Most companies registered increase in revenues (last year), but it took so hard for them to get there. This was because they had to deal with red tape, change in rules, regulations," he explained.

Navarro said that the concern for red tape was not only peculiar to the Philippines as companies in other countries also cited this as a major business constraint. "It has been a worldwide phenomenon. I don't think we are a stranger to that."

Forex reserves hit 10-mo high

Ayala raises regular cash dividend by 33%

SMC says stock rights offering fully subscribed

AEV net up 18% to P2.3B

LIFESTYLE

For feedback, e-mail us at lifestyle@inquirer.com.ph
Text us your feedback:
Inquirer Lifestyle
Editor Chito Bonal-Formoso

MONDAY ARTS & BOOKS • TUESDAY FITNESS • WEDNESDAY 2BU • THURSDAY FOOD • FRIDAY FASHION & BEAU

Around the world on a shopping spree

Manila's fashiona denizens talk about their favori shopping haunts and fab finds abro

APPLES' PICKINGS

Apples Aberin-Sadhwani

Part 1

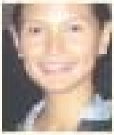

SHOPAHOLICS will agree that besides cultural forays to the Guggenheim Museum in New York or Bilbao or the Louvre in Paris or gastronomical treats in Tsukiji (the early morning fish market in Tokyo) or some obscure trattoria in Tuscany, one definite joy of traveling is discovering new shopping meccas that offer unique, stylish and, if you're lucky, affordable finds.

I, for one, always make it a point to explore the fashion, arts and interior design scene, specifically on the lookout for homegrown brands and designers, in every place I visit. Admittedly my heart starts racing each time I step into a mall, outlet store, flea market or any interesting new boutique.

Of course, it helps to do a little research before you head anywhere. The Internet is always a good source of information, as are magazines and certain shows on TV, but there's nothing quite like word of mouth.

So, to give you (and me) more exciting shopping options when traveling the globe, here are some of Manila's fashionable denizens talking about their favorite shopping haunts and fab finds.

E-mail the author at apsadhwani@hotmail.com

Tweetie de Leon-Gonzalez

Jewelry designer, Ice Crystals

I haven't been much of a shopper since I had my third child. I'd much rather sightsee and take photographs than shop. Everything I need is here in Manila.

But I couldn't resist the unbelievably affordable prices of the Prada outlet right outside Florence in Italy. I bought as many items as my conscience could muster. I got presents for family and friends. Even there now, don't mind going back again.

Pauline Suaco-Juan

Editor in chief, Preview magazine

Hands down, my favorite shopping destination is Bangkok. I love going to the stores of Thai brands Sodo, Senada, Kloset, Fly Now, Greyhound, Lena and It's Happened to be a Closet. Their clothes are very young and modern and the store interiors are super stylish.

I also love oriental markets, like the Grand Bazaar in Istanbul and especially the Khan el Kalili in Cairo, because it's a great place to buy accessories.

Blue Carreon

Fashion and style editor, Philippine Tatler magazine

Orchard Road in Singapore always entices me. I just love how all those fabulous shops are laid out on one long street and how they often go on sale. On my last trip there, I snatched up a pair of Gucci shoes for a fraction of how much they were selling here. I also like Queen Street in Toronto because of its fantastic mix of independent local stores with chain retail companies that sell everything from clothing to pop/mod-ish home ware, which I am currently obsessed with.

APPLES/C3

Patrice Ramos-Diaz

Designer

[illegible]

Around the world on a shopping spree

Ariel Lozada

Designer

[illegible]

Tippi Ocampo

Designer

[illegible]

Hindy Weber-Tantoco

[illegible]

[illegible]

Vic Barba

Designer

[illegible]

Rhea de Vera

[illegible]

[illegible]

LIFESTYLE

His papacy was cool

LIFE-STYLED

Thelma Sioson San Juan

> The ultimate irony is how the conservative Pope has become so New Age, so now

POPE John Paul II kisses children during the midnight Christmas Mass in St. Peter's Basilica on Dec. 24, 2003.

JOHN Paul II connected, still connects. Anybody could "channel" him. That's why the world has become his stage, across generations.

[illegible]

Updates

[illegible]

AQUA and white two-piece string bikini by Beached, white jeans by Victor, turquoise and coral dangling earrings by Ixu, lavender and aqua beaded flip flops by Atillo

WHITE two-piece bikini by Beached, multi-stranded turquoise necklace by Ixu

Pinoy summer

Text by Gum Padilla
Contributor
Photos by Joseph Agcaoili

THE ANNUAL summer shopping ritual is upon us. The search for the perfect bathing suits and the usual complementary accessories such as totes, flip flops, jewelry, hair begins.

There is a glut of products aimed to take advantage of the heat of summer in various colors, fabrics, cuts and labels. Dominated by foreign brands, these items can usually be found at a chi-chi mall nearest you.

Luckily, locally designed and made summer products are not hard to find, it was right in our very own backyard. Mobile-minded designers/entrepreneurs Tammy de Leon Gonzales of Ixu, Kathy Sarmiento [illegible] of Atillo, Jon Asuncion of Design 1130 and Rica Millalos of Beached had plenty of items that fit our summer shoot. They let us have a taste of summer fashion Pinoy style.

Adding sizzle to our Pinoy summer shoot are products from designer Anna Chavez, Walcoco by Betty Sabella, Zobe, Tomato, Noni Kho and Victor Jeans by Irene Cabrera.

Others like it foreign, but some like it Pinoy too.

WHITE tube by Anna Chavez, wooden bangles and necklace by Design 1130, white macramé bag and flip flops by Atillo

POPSICLE-ORANGE two-piece bathing suit by Beached with crochet and macramé tunic by Atillo

BEIGE bandeau by Walcoco, maroon sarong by Atillo, necklace by Design 1130

FLORAL two-piece swimsuit with ruffles by Walcoco and beaded waist chain by Ixu

BEADED barefoot sandal by Ixu

PRINTED tote by Tomato and green shoes sandals by Zobe

ARMY GREEN two-piece bathing suit by Beached and beach bag by Noni Kho